

Red Cross Road Junction

I expect like myself many people have experienced the daunting and potentially dangerous driving manoeuvre of trying to exit Red Cross Road onto High St. At this junction it is impossible to see oncoming vehicles crossing the railway bridge heading towards Goring village without edging forward well into the oncoming lane. This is highly dangerous and is an accident waiting to happen and may in fact have already happened.

This is a well-used junction by people leaving the local residential area but also people leaving the Goring Surgery.

It would be of considerable help to the community if the Council would arrange for the installation of a mirror at the junction on the opposite corner with Upper Red Cross Road. Posts are already available supporting other signage, so installation should not present a problem. This would give visibility of traffic crossing the bridge to drivers while waiting safely at the end of Red Cross Road prior to joining Main St.
